[redacted] there was flying at Parchim airfield on 30 April 1952. The planes took off in groups of two. Many aircraft were continually aloft. [redacted] in April, a twin-engine plane was repeatedly observed towing a sleeve target. On 2, 3 and 4 May, there was no flying at the field. Fifteen MiG-15s covered with tarpaulins were parked in the northern section of the field and six MiG-15s which were not covered with tarpaulins were on the eastern edge of the installation. *

* Comment. Parchim airfield is still occupied by a fighter regiment. Since there are no serviceable hangars at the field, it is believed that the regiment is equipped with about 20 MiG-15s. [redacted] 22 MiG-15s were stationed at the field. [redacted] information on flying in groups of two and firing at sleeve targets was previously received. [redacted]. The fighter regiment stationed at Parchim airfield which was formerly assigned to the division in Laerz was put under the command of the fighter division in Puetznitz in the spring of 1952. The fighter regiment in Wittstock was assigned to the division in Laerz.
